WHITTINGTON is a parish and compact and wellbuilt village, pleasantly seated 3 miles south-east from Lichfield Junction station on the London and North Western railway, 4 north-west from Tamworth, in the Lichfield division of the county, North Offlow hundred, Lichfield and Brownhills petty sessional division, Lichfield union and county court district, archdeaconry of Stafford and in the rural deanery and diocese of Lichfield. The church of St. Giles is a plain building of brick in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave and an embattled western tower of stone with a lofty spire containing a clock and 3 bells: the church was restored in 1881 at a cost of £1,000, and affords 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1575. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £219, including 46 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lichfield, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Dumaresq Cohu B.A. of Durham University: a new vicarage was built in 1886 from funds supplied by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. There is a small Congregational chapel. The general charities amount to £6 10s, yearly. The barracks and depot of No. 6 regimental district (Lichfield), on the Heath, occupy a site of 40 acres, in a fine position: the buildings comprise armoury, officers' quarters, recreation rooms and a chapel, a brick building in the Early English style: the barracks are available for 2,400 men, exclusive of officers. A force of two battalions of infantry is permanently quartered here, and new buildings have been erected as quarters for married men and their families. Full particulars will be found under Lichfield. The Heath, consisting of 338 acres, on the south-east side of the village, and formerly used as an open sheep walk, is now the property of the War department. The Old Hall, the property and residence of Col. Bassett Thorne Seckham D.S.O., J.P. is a large and ancient brick mansion, with stone mullioned windows, added about the Elizabethan period: nearly all the rooms are wainscoted, and some of the walls are loopholed for small arms: the front of the house is covered with ivy. The grounds are extensive and well laid out. Broom Leasoe, the property and residence of Mrs. Charles Henry Inge, is pleasantly situated in its own grounds, 13 miles north-east from the village. The Marquess of Anglesey is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Col. B. T. Seckham J.P.,
